JWWIV

I'll tell you what's up from my perspective. Read it on your show if you like. I'm laying low. I'm just a private citizen military historian, mystic and analyst taking on water at the cracked hull waterline.

All sources so far have zero evidence that can hold up in court and that's by design. The massive amount of circumstantial evidence is in contrast astounding. Disclosure in some measure is inevitable in the next 15 years, and no matter who gets it done it will be horrendous, disrupting and messy. If not handled right, it could start WW3 with official "threat narratives."

There's precious few of us mixed-bag, science, military, spook, oligarch and historian old-timers around DC who want genuine UFO/ET/advanced exotic technology clarity instead of WW3. Around four disparate groups exist I presume. Some members live elsewhere around the world but coordinate in DC.

Sadly, there's little impetus to do anything solid by USGOV/IC officialdom, just more hollow testimony (congress and in public), more runaround and hot air. That only goes so far. You need hard proof in public: a defense technology dog & pony expo with hovering black craft on the National Mall with free beer and a Marine Corps band. ET contractors need to be rolled out too, on video at least, and by some accounts they are willing and ready. The real McCoy of a fucking Vaudeville show. The White House must make an official statement with the Joint Chiefs in tow, LIVE. This scenario has been dangerously discussed since the 1950s, but they kick many cans down the road. People have died like dogs in a ditch.

Plus, we need quiet and diligent international diplomacy that works. Leaders must clasp hands. Right now, it's a steep uphill battle in the rain, wind, ice and snow. Most of the internal pushback is by our own people in power positions.

All of this constitutes the tallest of orders.

The Deep State regressive faction:

Doing the same thing over and over expecting different results is the definition of insanity...so I hear more congressional UAP hearings are in the works. But all sides are in on the game. It's always the same corrupt players, the ones that constantly interview themselves on (DIA, CIA) News Nation, CNN, etc. Lue Elizondo, Tim Burchett, Sen. Gillibrand, Rubio, Hal Puthoff, Eric Davis, Jim Semivan, Chris Mellon, Avi Loeb, Garry Nolan, Jaques Vallee, etc.

The new doc "Age of Disclosure," a limited intel Chris Mellon / SOL Foundation threat narrative movie says it all: Double down on NOTHING NEW. Chickenshit NDA-addled old men talking about very little.

Yet they are “official” heroes to many, and there exists too much cognitive dissonance and ignorance by the public; I feel sad and deflated for everyone. It's a case of The Emperor's New Clothes by Hans Christian Anderson. Keep in mind that the world IQ average is really 80. (Pentagon). The US Military won't take people under 85.

Most on The Hill, White House and in the Pentagon would rather have WW3 than meaningful disclosure in my opinion, and I'm not alone in that grim assessment. The MIC dirty laundry, congressional and corporate corruption are that bad. Disclosure is bad for business. Generals, admirals and retired politicians have skin in the game and sit on corporate boards trading exotic UFO tech between select groups in secret. ($$$$$). A closed system loop like a steam engine. An old, old game going back to 1945—the OSS, Project Paperclip and the German influence in our MIC.

Corporations worldwide are ALL involved with reverse-engineered offworld tech and they laugh about it while making trillions. Some may not know where the original tech came from, but they are still culpable. Plausible deniability and strict compartmentalization in this covert world is GOD.

I've met two tech billionaires who bragged about it recently in London. Sure, "some disclosure would be great for the world, they said, but not too much. Cold Fusion energy for desalination and desert crops for example. But too much is bad for the bottom line. Bad for innovation."

Corporate-run commerce with ET is all important—it's the biggest golden goose in history. In return, regressive polarity ET gets whatever their hearts desire. Anything at all...and in quantity.

Where did quantum entanglement A.I. come from? GPS? Drone warfare systems? Longitudinal Scalar frequency weapons? DEW? US Army LRAD and enhanced soldier gear? Neutrino tracking and deep space communications? Non-linear torsion physics? Ballistic glass smartphones? Teflon? Cling wrap? Stealth tech? Electromagnetic torsion field hull tech for the USN? Graphene tech? Nanotech everything? Metamaterials science? You guessed it. It's big business, the biggest.

I told those dipshit tech billionaires that WW3 would spoil their profits when we all will die, but they seemed delusional and nonplussed. More insanity, hubris. They only want to be a little bit pregnant.

Anyone who deals with corporate private investments and Wall St. has skin in this game, including myself and all Mellons, Duponts, Rockefellers, etc. All Americans vote for these USGOV assholes too. We all use money and banks. We all use the fancy new technology gadgets, computers, A.I. and Tesla cars with ignorant glee. We all have blood on our hands and irons in the fire. The average citizens of the world have benefitted from reverse UFO engineering and ET commerce: proton and frequency medical advances, nutrition, money markets, banking practices, nanite tech, LED lights, computers, advanced fabrics, Kevlar, carbon fiber, complex alloys, etc. Where does one point a finger now? Who is to blame? Well, we all are in actuality. Everyone who commits to ignorance and cognitive dissonance.

Bigger problem: The ultra classified exotic weapons arms race with the Big-3 nations and the Five-Eye nations is even worse since the public is not aware of it and wouldn't believe it. We have the power to literally crack the Earth in half. Sink Japan underwater in hours. Raise Europe to the ground using neutrino high frequency tectonic plate weapons. And to boot there's also hushed talk of a new weapon that can turn all carbon-based life into silica using matter transformation tech via frequency and light spectrum. Think in terms of the Sahara desert. Yes, matter can be created, transformed and destroyed, our public science is wrong.

We are also fighting in deep space, hence the missing black budget trillions, Space Mining Bill and the ever-growing Military-Industrial-Corporate-Intelligence-Complex. We are mercenaries. Slaves with no wisdom. Adrenaline junkies. And yet... we may all owe the US, European, UK, China and Russian military industrial complexes our very lives since they have also protected Earth from the very worst our universe has to offer. Our reality is a Catch-22 situation of twisted, grandiose proportions. Be careful who you call "the enemy." Yin-Yang duality is a bitch.

Trump and his dynamic cabinet don't give "us" a warm, competent feeling, my group that is, but Trump is indeed a disruptor and that's good. This is why my billionaire uncle Tim Mellon was his second biggest donor—Trump is the embodiment of forlorn hope via international chaos, the boiling crucible for true change. He and his wild-eyed merry-men are upending an amoral Deep State few understand, and ethics, morals and compassion are first world luxuries only. They are mere perspectives.

But I see disarray too. Arrogant, the White House has no impetus to disclose anything useful, but I hope I'm wrong. Most are drunk on power. They are children in a cocaine candy store armed with scant knowledge on UFO/ET history. Look at Musk and Hegseth, just giggling schoolboys. Tech Oligarch diplomacy at its finest. Vance is a bigmouth hillbilly idiot Bible-thumper. Europe hates us. "Signalgate" is an arbiter of what's to come: Ineptitude on a grand scale. But again, I hope I'm wrong.

War with Russia, China, Iran and NK is inevitable and the hawks want it. Good for profits and careers. The CHICOMS are literally insane, and insanely jealous of the West, ditto NK and Iran, Pakistan.

Totalitarian and religious fundamental ideology are all powerful, all corrupting, all misleading. Think about Hitler at the very end in 1945 when he wanted all of Germany burned to the ground, dead. The USA will win WW3 because we have the lion's share of classified weapons and space platforms, but the question is ...at what cost?

Trump will try to get Putin to fight China with us. We have always been friends with Russia on the secret UFO/ET reality since 1942 (Russia has European affinity). The Russians and Chinese hate one another. It's racial, cultural and ideological. Mongol hordes on the Steppes. China wants Siberian/Manchurian resources and lake Baikal for water. China is dry. Plus, Russia owes them big bucks. A Wagnerian mess.

The Big-3 nations all have different sets of ET allies and enemies, thousands of star nations, not three or four, all polarities. It's always been a dog's breakfast of agendas for the last 100 years or so. ET has advanced our technology for the greater good but also helped us arm ourselves to the teeth to fight their proxy wars (All wars are proxy ones).

Some regressive star nations would love it if we killed each other off, oh yes. Earth would be legally up for grabs by the strongest party under loophole-rich Cosmic Law (See: Hermetic Law). The positive ETs seem very weak and ineffective, but spiritually top notch. What good is that? The road to hell is paved with good intentions. Too little, too late.

As a galactic star nation ourselves in secret we have done little to better our situation and we keep most of the world dumbed down. We are ignorant, greedy, superstitious and warlike, and are considered mostly a lost cause by higher dimensional star nations. A failed experiment of 12 strand DNA fucktards easily manipulated and coerced by roving galactic mafias. How nice. How fashionable.

I have to wonder aloud if the long-term, complex Homo Sapiens experiment went too far? A case of too hot to handle DNA-wise like the dinosaurs? An overly hot, spicy mess of a galactic hybrid stew boiled over? Probably.

All official USGOV/IC/Pentagon disclosure efforts to date? Too little impetus, too weak, too late an effort. Unless there is a life-or-death NEED for disclosure it will never happen via officialdom. Never.

Academia as a whole is mostly mainstream hive-minded and useless, ditto the corrupt media. Our history is a big round Swiss Cheese wheel with huge chunks missing. Holes and lies. Sumerian clay tablets missing by the score, the Baghdad Museum raided again for dangerous knowledge.

U.S. Law only protects the rich and powerful, corporations and politicians. The law does not have jurisdiction over USAPS and corporations that are under NATSEC protocols (Patriot Act, NATSEC Act). Military law only goes so far and results are kept secret.

Not really an organized movement by any stretch, the public disclosure arena is an uncoordinated back-biting circus with 100,000 rings led by hubristic messiahs, stiff, limited-mindset conservative fact-checkers, former USGOV officials proffering desperate counterintelligence, inept do-gooder crystal-armed hippies, a few scattered decent thinkers and philosophers and a deluge of sinister conmen, and all are ego-driven ringmasters under bright Youtube / social media lights. Lovely. It's mostly a conglomerate of useless monkey see, monkey do rhetoric and regurgitated tall sea tales for the most part, but there is a good amount of logical information and history if one has 50 years of spare time to connect esoteric dots and separate lies from fiction using one's potent psionic skills. Oh, and don't forget to read the 60-pound volume of Manly P. Hall's "The Secret Teachings of All Ages."

All is a Catch-22 scenario. Few listen. Fewer take the time to learn.
